Emergency Management (Cross Border Travel No 8) (COVID-19) Direction 2020

South Australia assesses the current situation against the recommendations of the Prime Minister. It has been determined by the State Coordinator Commissioner, Grant Stevens that South Australia is currently in a better situation than other states. He feels that the current restrictions are working well in flattening the curve. This situation is assessed on a day to day basis and decisions will be made on any further restrictions according to advice from SA Health.

What is the online pre-approval process? Do I need to complete it?

Yes. If you are travelling into South Australia, by road or via the Adelaide airport, you need to complete the cross border travel registration prior to your arrival.

Note: South Australia Police would like to advise that we have received an unprecedented number of Cross Border Travel Registrations.

Consequently, we are currently experiencing a delay in application processing times, and wish to advise that all Cross Border Travel Registrations will be processed as quickly as possible.

If you have already completed the Cross Border Travel Registration, please commence your travel plans to South Australia and have all relevant documentation available to present to SA Police at the border.

On arrival in South Australia, travellers will be processed by SA Police to verify identification and their purpose of travel.

Applicants Cross Border Travel Registrations will be assessed independently to their entry at the border, airport, or port, and applicants will be contacted via email or phone to confirm their traveller status.

When did the border restrictions coming into effect?

The new border restrictions came into effect as of 12:01am on Thursday, 9 July 2020.

I am in Victoria and wish to enter South Australia. Am I allowed to?

Victorian residents, other than Essential Travellers will not be permitted to travel to South Australia. People who ordinarily reside outside of Victoria can enter South Australia and should familiarise themselves with restrictions.

COVID-19 FAQs

Emergency Management (Cross Border Travel No 8) (COVID-19) Direction 2020

How and where do I self-quarantine?

You can only leave self-quarantine to obtain urgent medical care or medical supplies, to get tested for COVID-19, or for any other emergency situation.

You must ensure no one else enters or stays at the place you are self-quarantining unless:

- they usually live there and you need to provide care/support to them, or receive care/support from them, or
- they are also self-quarantining, or
- your place of self-quarantine is appropriately set up so you do not have contact with others.

Because we need to minimise the number of people you are in contact with, you may need to make arrangements for yourself or other household members to stay somewhere else.

I have entered South Australia from Victoria. Is it mandatory to get the COVID-19 test?

No, it is not mandatory but people coming from Victoria are being asked to get a COVID-19 test within the first 24 hours of arriving, and again on day 12 of their 14 day self-quarantine period.

However, if you are experiencing the following symptoms, no matter how mild, get tested for COVID-19: Fever or chills, Cough, sore throat, Runny nose, shortness of breath, loss of taste or smell.

What are the restrictions for Truck drivers coming from interstate?

South Australian residents who are truck drivers crossing backwards and forth over the border (whether it be to Victoria or not) don't have to self-quarantine when they return. They are to minimise time spent in other states and cannot attend a disability care, correctional, health care or aged care facility without prior approval.

Residents of Victoria who are truck drivers and provide transport or freight services into, within and out of South Australia (including any crew on such transport or freight services) on a commercial basis are required to wear a mask at all times when in public and must self-quarantine when they are not conducting their duties.

Truck drivers coming from NSW and ACT are not required to self-quarantine when entering South Australia however they must minimise time spent in South Australia and cannot attend a disability care, correctional, health care or aged care facility without prior approval.
